

ANNOTATION

Azhippo O.Y. The system of individualized education of future teachers and some of the factors that influence the efficiency of its operation

In the article the system of individualized education of students is examined. Factors which affect its functioning are determined. Specific principles that determine efficiency of functioning of the given system are brought.

Key words: system of individualized education, efficiency of functioning, specific principles, student.

Alexandrova O.F. Humanistic pedagogical value of future teachers as the basis of professional occupation

The article describes the approaches to the definition of “humanistic educational values”. Their classification is offered, their place in the common system of values and the role in the personality formation of the future teacher are defined.

Key words: humanistic position, humanistic educational values, spiritual values, human values, teaching values, education values.

Amelina S.M. Formation of the speech component of the culture of professional communication in future agrarians

The article discussed the formation of the speech component of the culture of professional communication among students of agricultural universities. Specially selected targets of business Ukrainian and Ukrainian for professional orientation have been applied to influence the development of communicative speech skills, it facilitated the mastery of linguistic etiquette, formed the adequacy and accuracy of expression, enrich vocabulary.

Key words: culture of professional communication, speech component, student.

Ashitok N.I. Educational potential of the world picture in the works of N. Gogol: the problem of art work interpreting

In the article the problems of modern education in the global, state and national pedagogical context are examined; some problems of domestic and foreign pedagogy are analyzed. In particular, it is noted that the classical paradigm of education, which was based on translational communication, has exhausted its humanistic potential. The future of the educational process is a subject-subject communication paradigm.

Key words: educational potential, the picture of the world, the interpretation of the work, philosophy, education, human values.

Barlit O.O. Axiological basis of the formation of pupils value attitude to nature according to M. Groth’s educational thought

In the article the axiological basis of the formation of pupils ethical attitudes to nature, developed by M. Groth – representative of the Ukrainian educational thought of the end of XIX – beginning of XX centuries – is revealed. Trends in the orientation of environmental education in the formation of certain substructures of environmental consciousness identified.

Key words: axiological basis, environmental education, ethical attitude to nature, schoolchildren.

Belostotskaya O.V. Control and analytical phase of the pedagogical experiment to implement educational potential of future teacher’s research

In the article the results of control-analytical phase of the experiment on the implementation of educational potential of future teacher’s research are analyzed. Generalized results of the experimental work showed the effectiveness of pedagogical conditions of realization of educational potential of the research work of the future teachers. Improving the system of formation of knowledge, skills and personal qualities is explained by the development of teacher's research direction and their inclusion in various forms of activities that contribute to the implementation of the educational opportunities of research.

Key words: educational potential, educational opportunities, teacher's research, pedagogical conditions.

Boginskaya U.V. Support of students with disabilities at the institutions of higher education: types and directions

In the article the concept of "support", the types of support of students with vital activity disabilities, directions and conditions for maintenance are discussed. It is shown that the "support" is used interchangeably with the term "support". In scientific studies these types of support: social, pedagogical, psychological, technical are often distinguished. The variety of support types determines the model of support for students with disabilities at the institutions of higher education in the Ukraine.

Key words: support, students with disabilities.

Bocharova O.A. Torun gymnasium and academic lyceum: past and present

The article describes the experiments in school education in Poland (1883–2009). The organization of the educational process at Torun school and academic lyceum under the University of Nicolaus Copernicus is reported.

Key words: academic lyceum, experiment, Torun gymnasium.

Gnizdilova O.A. Features of the development of scientific schools at the pedagogical university

In the article the systematized analysis of factors which influence on the process of origin, development, valuable functioning of scientific school at the institutions of pedagogical higher education is carried out. The special attention is paid to the exposure of functional possibilities of scientific school of pedagogical university.

Key words: scientific school, leader, research program, functions, research group, pedagogical cooperation.

Gorbunova N.V. Linguistic, cultural and historical characteristics of multilanguage environment

In the article the linguistic, cultural and historical characteristics of multilanguage environment are revealed. The facts point to the fact that today the Ukrainian people spontaneously consolidate and begin to realize themselves gradually as unit socio-cultural formation, ethnic differences between the major components of which are not fundamental and confrontational.

Key words: consolidation, multilanguage environment.

Gregoraschuk U.V. The structure of secondary education and features of training in secondary schools of the USA

Structure and characteristic features of secondary education in the United States of America from entering elementary school and concluding with the choice of higher educational establishment are examined in the article. Special attention is paid to differentiation in comprehensive schools of the United States of America.

Key words: academic courses (required subjects), differentiation of instruction, elective courses, academic curriculum, training profile.

Denisenko Y.V. Formation of Geography as a subject of higher education (second half of the nineteenth – beginning of the twentieth centuries)

The article analyzed the dynamics of the development of Geography as an academic subject in high school (second half of the nineteenth – beginning of the twentieth centuries). Geographic disciplines began to teach at the beginning and Geography as a science emerged in the second half of the nineteenth century. Ensuring of teaching geographical subjects depended on the pedagogical skills and competencies of teachers, preparation of other teaching material for geographical courses (J.F. Levakovsky, O.V. Gurov, A.M. Krasnov, O.S. Fedorovsky).

Key words: high school, geography, academic subject.

Ivanchenko E.A. Experimental system of integrative training of future economists

The article presents experimental system of integrative professional preparation of future economists, due to which teaching-educational environment, answering the purpose of the adopted system, was created in educational establishment.

Key words: system of integrative professional preparation of future economists, training, educational practice.

Ivasishina S.V. Parental education and modern principles of family education in the USA

The analysis of basic principles of modern family education is offered in the article. It is created on the base of the last researches from organization of parental education in the USA.

Key words: parental education in the USA, principles of family education, “education with love and logic”, positive “I am – conception” of the child, “family and teachers’ partnership”.

Kalashnik M.P. Principles of musical thesaurus creation

The methodological approach for creation of musical thesaurus-dictionary is revealed.

Key words: methodological approach, musical thesaurus-dictionary.

Kalashnikova T.V. Game technologies at primary school

The article is connecting with the problems which arise up during the selection of effective technologies of studies at primary school. Speech goes about the prospects of introduction of playing technologies in the educational process of primary school. A game and playing technology are analysed after their structural constituents. Different classifications of playing technologies are resulted.

Key words: game, technology, game technology.

Kamozina N.V. Draft of school as a new approach to the management of the institution of state-public foundations in France

The article analyzed the project form of organization as a social and pedagogical trends in the overall system of school management in France. The project takes into account the school social environment of students, teaching methods, available resources and best practices. It is approved by council, which consists of representatives of three parties: the elected representatives of local authorities and school administrators, teachers and technical staff, pupils and their parents. This council is one of the features of the organization of state and public administration in schools of France.

Key words: state-public foundation, educational institution, France.

Karichkovskaya S.P. Historical aspects of methods for studying foreign language

The features of different teaching methods of the English language from the beginning of the method origin as a science are studied and analysed in the article. The theoretical sights at the educational material perception by students and its teaching are presented. The teaching method of the English language of Uman state agrarian university is considered.

Key words: foreign language, teaching methodology.

Katkova T.I. Person self-education in the context of the concept of continuous education

In the article self-education is examined as an integral component of preparing future professionals for their professional activity in the context of the concept of continuous education. The main scientists' approaches to the interpretation the notion of "self-education" are analyzed. The problem of self-education and its features for different age groups in the context of continuous education are considered, phases and steps of self-education activities are recovered and grounded.

Key words: continuous education, personality, self-education.

Katrich N.V. Requirements as a creative personality of the teacher at high school

The article makes an attempt to systematize scientific views during the learning of personality's creative characteristics and teacher of high school too. The author defines a range of problems during determining distinguishing streaks of creative person and presents the own system of creative characteristics (initial (basic) and secondary one).

Key words: creative personality, creative quality, quality of creative teacher of high school.

Kirichenko I.P. Socio-pedagogical competence of a specialist of law enforcement

The article highlights the problems and the need for a socio-pedagogical competence in the training of internal affairs bodies. Formulation of professional competence of law enforcement agencies in the socio-pedagogical aspect is accurated. The concept of "socio-pedagogical competence of a specialist law enforcement agencies" is substantiated.

Key words: socio-pedagogical competence, law enforcement, training.

Klopov R.V. The systems approach as the methodology of the research training of future specialists of physical education and sport

In the article the systemic approach as a research methodology training of future specialists of physical education is revealed. It is proved that the training of future specialists of physical education and sport can be considered from the standpoint of cybernetic method for the analysis of educational systems.

Key words: systemic approach, training, specialist in physical education.

Klopota O.A. Features of the social integration of persons with visual impairments in different historical circumstances

The article presents a retrospective analysis of the prerequisites for social integration of persons with visual impairments. The process of integration into the society of persons with visual impairments in different historical conditions has certain features, however, there have always been those who, despite the objective and subjective obstacles, are very successful, taking a worthy place in the world, own example showed erroneous stereotypes representations about the limited human resources in conditions of physical disabilities.

Key words: historical circumstances, person with visual impairments, social integration.

Kovalevskaya N.V. Activity of home educator in the conditions of family

In the article family as environment of professional activity of home educator is characterized. The article contains the author's ideas about the short description of the stages of adjusting of cooperation of home teacher with family members.

Key words: professional competence, home teacher, activity in the conditions of family, stages of cooperation.

Kovalenko G.S. Motivational and value orientation of the future teachers to self-development as the basis of acmeology position

The motivation-valuable aspect of the formation of acmeological position of the future teacher is shown. The performed inquiry gave the opportunity to find the valuable orientations of the students and their tendency to the development of their inner "I" in the teacher profession.

Key words: acmeological approach, motives, values, the position of the future teacher, future teachers.

Kovalenko O.A. Determinants of intellectual gifts of children and young students

The article analyzes the views of domestic and foreign scholars on the role of biological and social factors in the development of intellectual abilities of the child. The connection with some talent psychophysical features of the child is described. Expediency of twin research as one of the main lines of research on the influence of heredity and environment on the development of gifted children is grounded.

Key words: determinants of development, intellectual gifts, youth.

Komissarenko E.V. Test in the form of logic circuits as a form of control of students' knowledge in the process of learning higher mathematics

In the article the methods of control of educational achievements of students in the process of studying higher mathematics are considered. The pedagogical test based on logical chains is offered as the more effective form of control of the level of knowledge of higher mathematics.

Key words: forms of control, pedagogical test, logical chains.

Kononets N.V. Scientific rationale for the principle of hypertext for creation an electronic textbook for the individualization of teaching students

The article describes the tools and teaching techniques that are used in electronic textbooks, developed by the author, for the implementation of the principle of hypertext and the achievement of teaching goals of individualization of teaching students agricultural colleges.

Key words: principle of hypertext, electronic textbook, individualization of learning.

Kopanitsya K.V. Classification of didactic situations

The article deals with the structurally functional and dynamical approaches to the essence of didactical situations. The actual problem of didactical situations classification in accordance to the stages of acquiring knowledge is grounded. Some peculiarities of each didactical situation are considered.

Key words: pedagogical process, pedagogical activity, learning situation, didactical situation, acquiring knowledge.

Korol L.L. Educational sightseeing in a foreign language in groups of unphilology faculties at the university: the theoretical and methodological aspects

In the article covered the theoretical and methodological aspects of educational sightseeing in the formation of foreign language communicative competence of students unphilology specialties. The potential for the preparation and training of sightseeing in the organization of independent work of students in a foreign language is defined.

Key words: foreign language communicative competence, educational sightseeing, unphilology faculty, students' independent work.

Krasko E.S. Researching the problems of national minorities in the process of university study

In the article problems of national minorities are analyzed. A problem of national minorities in our country is revealed, theoretic and methodological approaches to analyze a situation in a modern society are considered.

Key words: national minorities, society, studying.

Krul G.L. Background and creation of the first educational institutions of the Romanovs in the Crimea

In the article the prerequisites for development of charitable and educational activities of the Romanov family in the Crimea in the second half of the nineteenth – the beginning of the twentieth centuries, creation of the first educational institutions are revealed. It is shown that the charitable and educational activities of the Romanov family was a complex of measures aimed at expanding the network of educational institutions of various kinds and strengthening their educational and methodical bases; material support to medical institutions, social institutions, cultural centers, libraries, assist in the eradication of illiteracy, provision of support for pupils, students and teachers through the establishment of scholarships, providing material and financial assistance.

Key words: charitable and educational activities, educational institution, the family of the Romanovs.

Kuznetsova O.Y. The implementation of language education in the Ukraine and the UK

On the basis of comparative analysis the article deals with the tendencies in language education realization in the Ukraine and the UK. The common problems in foreign language teaching realization are specified. The positive aspects in foreign language teaching realization in the Ukraine are characterized.

Key words: language education, foreign language teaching, educational institutions, the Ukraine, the UK.

Levchenko Y.E. Pedagogical and professional orientation of the personality of the future teacher as an important factor in performance of his occupation

Nowadays the basic criterion of the graduate's appraisal of the pedagogical university is the knowledge principally while the definite factor of the successfulness of his professional activity is the professional and pedagogical trend of the personality, spiritual wealth, moral and aesthetic face, individual future teacher's style.

Key words: personality, professional activity, professional and pedagogical trend, motives, orientation, individual style.

Leonenko N.A. Psychological and pedagogical foundations of application of self-certification of students' educational achievements

In the article the basic psychological and pedagogical foundations of self-certification for successful comprehensive child development and learning opportunities throughout life is analyzed. It is proved that self-certification is a path that can not be neglected for a correct and accurate assessment of educational achievements of pupils. Each teacher can gently use psychological and pedagogical foundations for self-certification.

Key words: comprehensive development, psychological and pedagogical principles, self-certification, success.

Lizvinsky V.L. Teaching framework for selecting and structuring of learning material for undergraduate textbook on pedagogy

In the article the foundation for further research into the problems of selection and structuring of teaching material not only for undergraduate textbook on pedagogy, but for other humanities disciplines is laid. It is proved that the selection and structuring of teaching material should be implemented on a broad scientific basis, take into account the principles of didactics, specific academic subject, the dominant component, etc.

Key words: university textbook, educational foundations, teaching material.

Liskovatskaya H.M. Elements of comparative analysis in "Pedology" by S.A. Ananin

In the article the occurrence history pedology as sciences is considered, activity of members of the pedologic seminar is studied at Kiev INO, in particular S.A. Ananin who in the rather-comparative plan investigated a science condition about the child in the United States of America, England, Germany, Belgium, France, and also has stated the opinions at the maintenance and the task of the pedology.

Key words: Kiev Institute of National Education, pedology, comparison, confrontation, S.A. Ananin.

Lopotko O.A. Criteria for evaluating of the training of teachers to the organization of independent work of students in the system of methodical work of BIS Ministry of Internal Affairs of the Ukraine

In the article the criteria for teacher training high schools of the Interior Ministry to the organization of independent work of students in the system of methodical work are revealed. Changes in the training of teachers on three criteria: ownership of knowledge regarding the basic principles of organization of independent work of students, skills and habits of a better selection of species, forms and methods of organizing independent work of students, the nature of interaction of teacher and students are traced.

Key words: criteria for evaluation, methodical work, individual work.

Lukyanov Y.S. The essence and structure of the readiness of the future teacher-engineer for using technologies of health keeping

In the article the nature and structure of the readiness of the teacher-engineer for using technologies of health keeping are revealed. The main components of the readiness of the future teacher-engineer for using technologies of health keeping in professional activities are: personality-motivational, or psychological, cognitive, or scientific and theoretical, procedural, or practical.

Key words: teacher-engineer, technologies of health keeping.

Mazin V.M. Features of “human self-actualization” by A. Maslow as indicators of formation of the culture of teachers’ professional self-actualization

The article shows that signs of “human self-actualization” by A. Maslow inherent to the teachers, who managed to realize their full professional potential and which can be regarded as indicators of the availability of a culture of professional self-realization by ordinary teachers. Diagnosis of culture of professional self-educators can use techniques based on a A. Maslow explication of the characteristics of “human self-actualization”.

Key words: culture of professional self-realization, self-actualizing people, professional capacity.

Mazurik O.O., Fukleva G.O. Dialogue as a way of interaction in pedagogy of primary education

In the article the changing perception of the phenomenon of childhood in history and analyze the views of modern science in this process are traced. Only in the early twentieth century prerequisites personal approach to the child were appeared. Teachers, parents should not force and make advances to the students of primary school age to the interaction. Since the dialogue as an understanding of another becomes a way of life of mankind, it should be considered a natural form of interaction with the child who began training.

Key words: childhood, dialogue, personal approach, primary education.

Mamaeva O.A. Features of the formation of the cognitive activity of the future teachers

The article highlighted on the basis of analysis of research essence of the concept of cognitive activity of future teachers, especially its formation. An important condition for the effectiveness of social activities to form a cognitive activity is enriching the content of social activity and improvement of various forms of self-government. In organizing the activities of students effective pedagogical tools to maximize personal development must be used.

Key words: social activity, cognitive activity, personality development, formation.

Marikivskaya G.A. Learning to speak before the audience at future managers in the classroom in the Ukrainian language in the higher educational establishment of economic

In the article the possibility and need for an ability to speak to the audience at future managers in the classroom in the Ukrainian language are discussed. It is shown that one of the lessons of Ukrainian language have the ability to generate future managers skills to speak before an audience.

Key words: students’ ability to speak, future managers, higher education and economic institution.

Markova N.O. Application of elements of information technology in the study of mathematical sciences

In the article the features of the methodology of applying the elements of information technology in the process of learning the theory of probability and mathematical statistics in high school are analyzed. Educational research shows that the introduction of elements of information technology in the educational process and management of their association with traditional teaching methods offers significant educational benefits.

Key words: high school, information technology, training of probability theory and mathematical statistics.

Martinets L.A. Improving pedagogical culture of the parents as the basis for the formation of person student business competitive

In the article the importance of improving teacher education and culture of parents in the upbringing of the youth of today, the preparation of future competitive specialist in the labor market are revealed. The formation of the individual living space, forming a business student's creative personality, his preparation for the project activity determine not only to encourage senior high school student activities and orientation, but also interest of educators and parents in the study of child development and disclosure of his best personal, creative and professional qualities and properties.

Key words: parents, competitive personality, teacher culture, student.

Marchuk I.P. Formation and development of professional training of future sociologists: historical aspect

In the article by domestic and foreign experience of training of future sociologists is analyzed and systematized.

Key words: training, sociologist.

Matveeva O.O. Formation of the creative imagination of the future teachers of music as a psychological and pedagogical problem

The article deals with pedagogical and psychological researches devoted to imagination. The article stresses that imagination makes a component of pedagogical proficiency structure and is an important element of teacher's psychotechnique and his pedagogical aptitudes. The importance of imagination development in prospective teachers of music has been proved.

Key words: imagination, psychological and pedagogical research, future music teachers.

Melnychuk I.M. Means of interactive technologies in the traditional training of social workers in higher education

In the article the tools for interactive technologies that are used in traditional lectures and seminars form of training of social workers in higher education are revealed. Use of interactive technologies on training in high school meets those principles upgrade education as degree of innovation along with the traditional, personality-oriented approach to student variation in the forms and methods of training etc.

Key words: high school, interactive technology, social worker, traditional training.

Melyuhina N.E. Place and role of tutor in the system of distance education

The article shows the place and role of the tutor in distance education system. It is proved that the work of teachers in distance education differs from traditional education. While maintaining the main functions of teaching – learning management, education, development – it has a much greater physical and psychological load than a teacher in the traditional system. Teacher of distance education is in a legal vacuum, since there are no labor standards and payment for his work, his status is not defined.

Key words: teacher, distance education, traditional education, tutor.

Milko N.E. Dialogue in education in the measurements of civilizational and cultural approaches

In the article the place and role of constructive dialogue in education in the dimensions of civilized and culturological approaches are considered. The author proves that in the modern educational strategies it is necessary to use educational dialogical potential not only for getting effective intercultural communication, better realization of reality, deepening of knowledge and entire reflection of the world, but also for full-fledged development of personality able to carry out authentic dialogue with the world.

Key words: civilizational approach, constructive dialogue, dialogue of cultures, equal in rights dialogue, intercultural communication, multiculturalism, educational strategy.

Mironova M.Y. Postgraduate education of future psychologists as scientific and pedagogical problem

The article describes the theoretical and methodological bases of post-graduate training of future psychologists. It is defined as an important scientific and practical problem.

Key words: scientific and pedagogical problem, postgraduate education, psychologist.

Molchanyuk O.V. The value of personal technology-oriented training and education in the preparation of future elementary school teachers

In the article justified the importance of personal technology-oriented training and education in the preparation of future elementary school teachers. Based on the analysis of practice of primary school teachers determined the conditions necessary for effective progress in the innovation process.

Key words: innovation, technology, personality-oriented technology, pedagogical process, interpersonal relationships.

Morgun J.O. Relevance of economic education for school youth

Main aims and tasks of economic education of schoolchildren and its influence on the formation of economic way of thinking among the rising generation are disclosed in the article. Present article briefly looks through the main views on economic education of native teachers at the end of XIX–XX centuries and defines the actuality of the topic of the research.

Key words: economic education, the school rate of the economy, the goal of economic education, the problem of economic education.

Morokhov O.O. Information competence teacher: the theoretical aspect

The article presents theoretical information about the information competence of the modern teachers of secondary school. Components of such jurisdiction are grounded. The importance of its formation is substantiated.

Key words: information competence, informatization, information and communication resources.

Moseyko U.V. The formation of professional competence of future engineers-metallurgists by the means of practical-oriented training

The article describes the method of formation of professional competence of future engineers-metallurgists by the means of practical-oriented training. Didactic game can and should include something new and progressive that appears in academic work and practice. New tactics and operations have been tried in games in various forms and compounds, long before they will be applied in professional activities.

Key words: engineer-metallurgist, practice-oriented teaching, professional competence.

Naumova I.I. Concept of professional identity as a component of the formation of future teachers in the modernization of higher education in the Ukraine

In the article concept of professional identity, its essence are revealed. The problems of preparation of students to labor activity are lighted. This problem is one of substantial problems of labor, age and pedagogical psychology and pedagogy and all society.

Key words: psychology, professional identity, society, students.

Nekrasova S.M. Anthropological approach to the modernization of goal-setting in modern education

In the article the condition of research of a problem concerning definition of the purpose of training and education in the Ukrainian educational space is revealed. The concept of a pedagogical ideal, characteristic priority directions of definition of the purposes of education are outlined, tendencies of development of the complete human person are established.

Key words: anthropological approach, problem, education maintenance, ideal, purpose, education, targeting, person, value.

Nemchenko S.G. Lebed O.V. Reflective culture as an invariant of professional culture of leader of establishment of education

In the article problems of reflective culture are examined as an invariant of professional culture of leader of establishment of education, indexes are determined, criteria and terms of becoming of such culture.

Key words: professional culture, professionalism, reflection, reflective culture.

Nikulochkina O.V. Theoretical and methodological aspects of preparing children for school

The article presents a brief overview of theoretical and methodological aspects of the phenomenon to prepare the child for school. It is shown that in modern pedagogy and psychology different (sometimes diametrically opposed) views on the nature and criteria for the school children of senior preschool age coexist.

Key words: children' training, modern pedagogy, school.

Nuzhnaja T.V. Interdisciplinary communication in the teaching of university students of chemical disciplines towards the direction of Food Technology and Engineering

The article reveal the essence of the concept of interdisciplinary communication. The types, kinds and functions of inter-subject relations are analyzed. The possibility of using inter-subject relationship for the chemical sciences in the preparation of specialists for Food Technology and Engineering is shown.

Key words: interdisciplinary communication, students, chemical disciplines.

Oleinik N.Y. The readiness of future teachers to the educational activities in child welfare institutions of rehabilitation and recreation: realities and prospects

In the article the components, indicators and levels of preparedness for future teachers to the educational activities in a child care recovery and rest are analyzed. These results do not meet modern requirements and in need of thorough improvement. It is established that a health camp to create a unique atmosphere of building structures to develop child self-promoting social activity, experience, knowledge of children for future educational, cognitive, experimental activities.

Key words: educational activities, child care recovery and rest, future teacher.

Oleinikova K.I. Peculiarities of training of teachers in educational institutions of modern China

The article opens the content of modern teacher training education in China. There is a division of Chinese teacher training education on higher, secondary and special pedagogical education in present article aimed to prepare teachers for primary and secondary schools. Author presents modern programs for teacher training, basic directions of co-operation and perspectives of Chinese teacher training education. Therefore the measures for further development and reform of Chinese teacher training education are being suggested in the article.

Key words: teacher training education, teacher training, educational programs, content, basic education, higher education, teacher training institution.

Olovarenko O.I. Improving the quality of training of future primary school teachers through the introduction of innovative technologies mother tongue education

The article presents the experience of teaching a new course “Technologies of the study of Language and Literature”. Teaching and teaching technology education in the mother tongue and literature, which are discussed in the proposed course, will make each student – future teachers – a direct participant in the learning process, which itself looks for ways and means to address the problems facing the modern elementary school.

Key words: innovative technology, primary school, quality of training.

Orel-Khalik U.V. Aesthetic taste as a moral and aesthetic determinant of training future law enforcers

In the article the concept of “aesthetic taste of law enforcement bodies” as a determinant of moral and ethical training of future law enforcers is analyzed. Important components of building a competent worker MIA of the Ukraine are individual, creative, social, reflective, motivational and value, aesthetic orientations. Personalization of this process requires a high level of internal culture of personality, which is impossible without a developed aesthetic culture, the complex features of which is the expression of aesthetic taste.

Key words: aesthetic taste, law enforcers, competence, training.

Osadchenko I.I. Features of didactic and psychological interaction in the “teacher – student” system in the context of the application of technology situational learning

In the article peculiarities, feature of effectiveness of the didactic-psychology interaction system “teacher–student” in the context of the application of technology situational learning in the training of future teachers are described.

Key words: studies-psychology interaction; didactic-psychology interaction; technology case-study.

Ostrovskaya N.D. Personally oriented approach in the training of future farmers of humanities

In the article the possibility of introducing personally oriented approach in teaching the process of learning the humanities for future farmers is revealed. Analysis of problems of implementation of personally oriented approach in the study subjects humanitarian cycle showed the need to modernize the educational process.

Key words: personally oriented approach, studying.

Otroshko T.V. Informatical competence as an important function of the teacher of Informatics

The article analyzed the professional competence of teachers of informatics. The author argues that a key component of professional competence of teachers of Informatics, whose importance is now due to changes in education caused by the development of information technology is competence in the field of information and communication technologies, ie, of computer competence.

Key words: informatics expertise, information technology, information technology environment.

Pavlenko V.O. Characteristics of the physical prerequisites of self-education students in higher education

In the article the physical description of the prerequisites of self-education students in higher education is presented.

Key words: higher education institution, conditions of physical self-education, students.

Pavlenko L.V. The formation of economic knowledge and skills in the teaching of higher mathematics to students of universities

In the article the basis of the intensification of training techniques advanced mathematics students of economic specialties of higher educational institutions by the systematic use of challenges of economic content is revealed. It is proved that proper awareness of students with the possibilities of using mathematical tools to economic problems requires teachers profiling objects is also widely use it in their teaching.

Key words: teaching of higher mathematics, economic knowledge and skills, the intensification of training.

Papucha V.M. Evolution of the definition of the phenomenon of pedagogical skills of teachers of physical education

The article presents explication of its own definition of pedagogical skills teachers of physical education. Definitions of pedagogical skills represent at least three of its aspects: the characterization of the results of educational activities; characterization of the process of pedagogical activity, as well as the internal characteristics of individual teachers that provide self-organization of their career. Under the pedagogical skills of teachers of physical education is offered to understand the complex of personality characteristics, self-organization which provides a high level of professional activity on the basis of reflective and makes it possible with minimal effort, as soon as possible to achieve the planned results of professional activity.

Key words: physical education teacher, pedagogical skills.

Perepletchikov D.O. Structural and functional analysis of the readiness of future specialists in physical education and sport to the organization of Youth Academy

The article is based on the analysis of professions, as well as the factor analysis results of the survey leaders coach composed of structural and functional model of preparedness of the future specialist in physical culture and sport to the organization of junior sports school.

Key words: commitment to the organization of Youth Academy, structural-functional analysis, specialist in physical education.

Pishun S.G. The essence of the category of leisure in theoretical studies

The article outlines a number of concepts and theories, in which leisure is shown as an instrument of social and pedagogical-educational process in the formation of personality. Analysis of the different views shows the dialectics of social, cultural and educational space, as well as the synergies and personal approach in the development of modern leisure. During the integration of leisure and development of search-based frameworks, approaches, activities, functions, models, concepts, theories are intersectoral integration, which is important for modeling of leisure in society.

Key words: leisure, pedagogically and educational process, the formation of personality.

Ponomarev V.O. The criteria of formation of professional and pedagogical competence of coaches in athletic gymnastics

The article presented explication indicators vocational teacher competency in athletic coaches gymnastics. Of formation of professional and pedagogical competence of coaches in athletic gymnastics can be determined by such criteria: value to consumers of services for athletic gymnastics, personal importance of professional activity, psychological readiness to implement the knowledge and skills, which is competence in the profession, knowledge of the theory and the practice of athletic gymnastics; objectively necessary psychological and pedagogical knowledge, skills and vocational teacher interaction in a variety of situations, the ability of the emotional-regulation due to professional activities.

Key words: vocational and pedagogical competence, athletic trainer at the gym.

Prihodchenko K.I., Okhrimenko V.V. Problem field ontogeny of communication as a social phenomenon in a creative educational environment

In the article the problem field ontogeny of communication as a social phenomenon in a creative educational environment is discussed.

Key words: ontogeny, awareness-raising environment, problem field.

Sushchenko A.V. The problem of organization of humanistic orientation of the pedagogical process in physical education lessons

The article presents some empirical evidence for the problem of two worlds within the educational component of physical education – a humanitarian and authoritarian attitudes. It is identified priority schools humane policy of modern pedagogical process.

Key words: authoritarian approach, humane approach, pedagogical process.

Cherepehina O.A. Methodical principles of teaching the subject Workshop on the General Psychology of MMR to the formation of future professional psychologists

In the article problems of formation of future professional psychologists in high schools in the process of training in the context of the Bologna process are revealed. Emphasis on the creation of a specially constructed reflective environment in which the core values and the result of training is the future of professional psychologist. The article summarizes data on the specific methodology of teaching the subject “Workshop on the general psychology” when working with students to form their professionalism.

Key words: professional psychologist, formation of future professional psychologists, methodological foundations, teaching discipline.

Shpak I.O. Modern educational technology

The article summarized information about modern teaching technologies. The quality of higher vocational education is determined. The basic terminology is revealed.

Key words: higher vocational education, educational technology.